

Holocaust, Genocide, & Human Rights Education Project

Native American Women's Activism & Resistance A Workshop for K-12 Educators

Native American women have fought for political sovereignty and cultural autonomy since the first moments of European contact. In this workshop we will examine the life stories of Native American women activists from the 20th and 21st centuries in order to help educators develop content knowledge and pedagogical approaches to teaching Native American history in ways that center indigenous women's knowledge, power, and resistance.

Join faculty from Montclair State University's Native American and Indigenous Studies (NAIS) program and educators from the New-York Historical Society in this hands-on teaching workshop. Participants will have the opportunity to learn about current scholarship in the field, and gain access to primary source material and lessons in Native American history.

Professional Development Hours awarded to educators.

Photo: Gertrude Kasebier, Zitkala Sa, Sioux Indian and activist, c. 1898. Gertrude Kasebier, National Museum of American History, Smithsonian Institution.

because history matters

NEW-YORK HISTORICAL SOCIETY
MUSEUM & LIBRARY

Holocaust, Genocide
and Human Rights
Education Project

MONTCLAIR
STATE UNIVERSITY

ONLINE WORKSHOP

Thursday, May 2, 2024

4:00 PM – 5:30 PM

Free & open to all

Register Here:

<https://bit.ly/NAWAR24>

Contact Information:

Dr. Zoë Burkholder
Director of the Holocaust,
Genocide, & Human Rights
Education Project

burkholderz@montclair.edu